ARMSTRONG TWP. HIGH SCHOOL

FORWARD

In the creation of the yearbook for the year of 1941, we the staff, take great pleasure in presenting to you in some small degree, our sincere wish, that the Resume set forth a spirit of comradeship toward all students and toward our ever consistent teachers, who so nobly strive to teach us the fundamentals of a successful career.

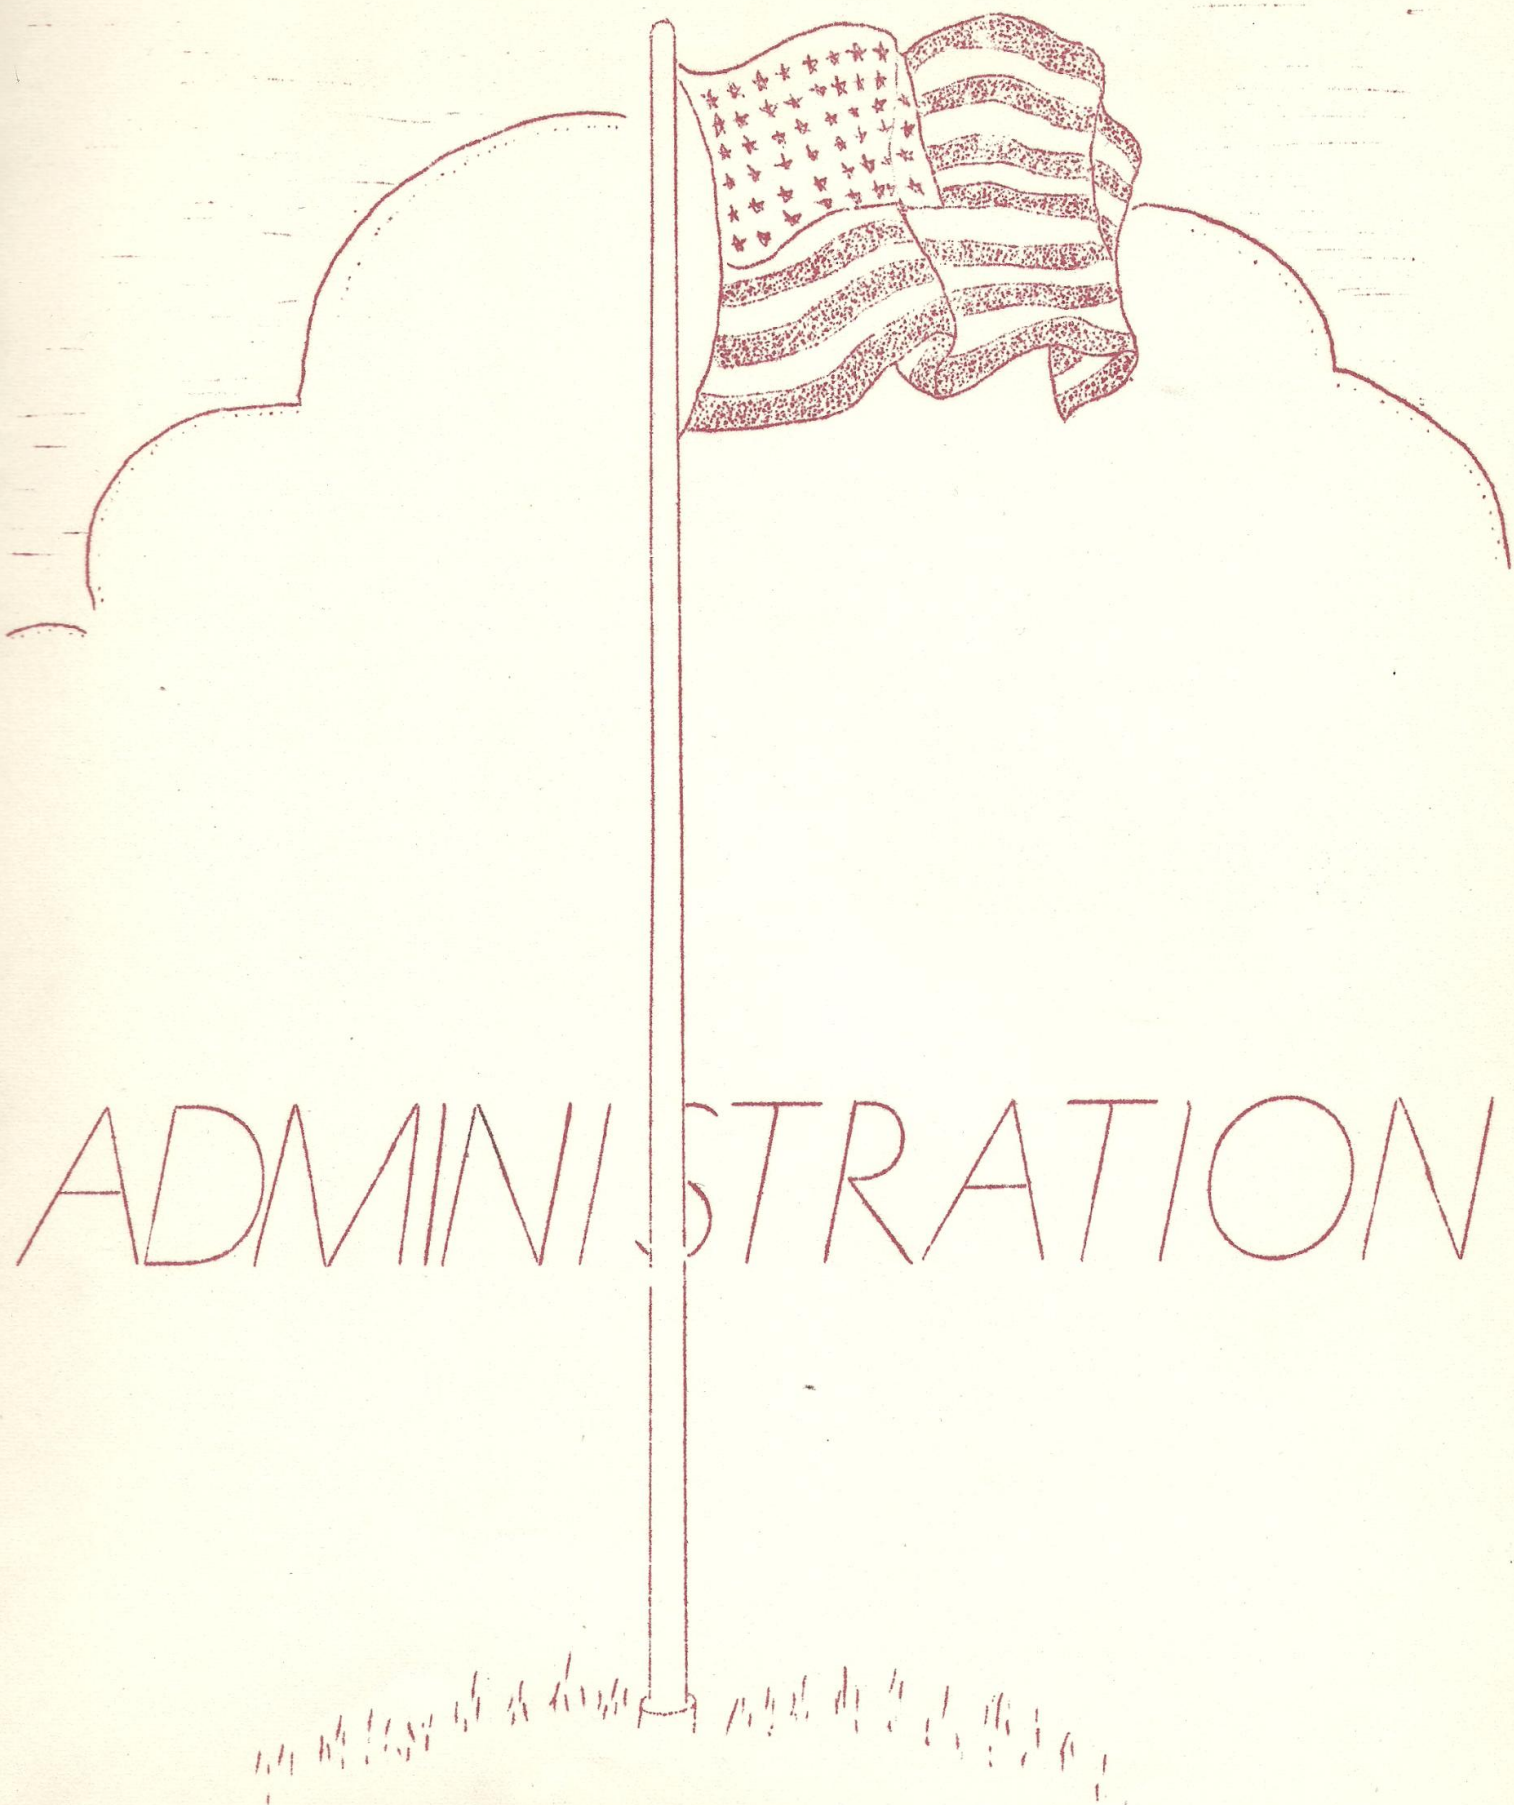

Our only hope is that the pages of this book are read by all those who by chance have one, and that by so daring, they may derive from its print that satisfaction which indicates, that things worth while are surely worth striving for.

IN APPRECIATION

At the end of this school year Mrs. Don Burkhart is severing her connections with Armstrong High School after ten years of service as Office Secretary.

"June," as everyone connected with the school knows her, started in the office on part time during her Senior year in high school in 1931-32. She has been called upon to do a variety of jobs, all of which she has done in a conscientious, efficient way. The list includes making of eligibility lists, bookkeeping for fifteen different high school accounts, rendering first aid for a variety of ailments all the way from scratches to fainting, meeting and handling visitors, having charge of assemblies, looking after the library and library help, taking care of telephone calls and ever giving advice to girls in their problems. She has not only relieved the principal of the worry of many details in the administration of the school but has also assisted the rest of the faculty and others outside of the school in many ways especially with her mimeograph work. It will take considerable time for even a promising successor to fill her place as she has filled it.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of 1937, thirty inexperienced Freshmen entered the Armstrong High School. They elected class officers as follows: Phyllis Laurence, president; Keith Rose, vice-president; Annis Wilson, secretary-treasurer; Beryl Reynolds, student council. Mr. Maxey was the class advisor. The Christmas party was given by this class.

In the fall of 1938, as Sophomores, they began the second year of high school. Class officers were: Philip Laurence, president; Louise Kingry, vice-president; Annis Wilson, secretary-treasurer; Phyllis Laurence and Ray Duncan, student council members. Mr. Maxey was the class advisor. Members who dropped out were: Charles Altman, Alvin Putnam, Louise Kingry, and Annabell Romack. New members were: Wilma Elliott, Betty Hand, Madeline Hatfield, Eugene Mehl, Audrey Reynolds, Anna Coffee, Margaret Warner, Dorothy Wright, Mildred Davis, Alice Graham and Wendell Wise. The Halloween party was given by this class.

In September 1939, the Junior officers were: Leland Duncan, president; Annis Wilson, vice-president; Phyllis Laurence, secretary-treasurer; Philip Laurence, Ray Duncan and Pauline Metz, student council members. Mr. Porter was the class advisor. New members were: Robert Knoll, Arnold Schluter, Warren Shores, Gordon Parsons, Dwain Riggleman, Goldie Parks, Mary McGuire, Mary Ellen Stover, Arvest Thomas, Marjorie Owens, and Katharine Bruns. Members who dropped out were: Robert Britt, Madeline Hatfield, Robert Morris, Betty Hand, Anna Coffee, and Royce Swisher.

There were 36 members when they started in 1940. At last, they had reached the Senior year which held for them the class play, the Junior-Senior Banquet, class pictures and rings besides parties and other activities. They chose Robert Cessna, president; Mary Ellen Stover, vice-president; Ruth Bocher, secretary-treasurer; Richard Martin, Marjorie Davis, Mason Burd and Leland Duncan, student council members. Miss Newell and Mr. Ray were advisors. New member: Richard Martin. Members dropped were: Vera Mabry, Pauline Metz, Myrtle Smith, Ellen Collins, Ardith Cox, Wilma Elliott, Arvest Thomas, Mildred Davis and Dorothy Wright.

CLASS PROPHECY

I had to face the facts! My airplane was out of gas, and that was the situation! Never having used a parachute before, I was mildly frightened, but since I didn't relish the thought of being on hand when the thing crashed, I fastened the chute on, opened the door, took a big breath and dropped--knowing not where. Imagine the surprise when I landed near a huge building which closely resembled an observatory. The curiosity in me forced me to investigate and I found Professor Beryl Reynolds squinting into a giant telescope, the most powerful, I found out later, in all the world! After being amazed at having seen each other, we fell to talking over old times at A. T. H. S. and wondering how the school was getting along in this year of 1950. While we were reminiscing, Beryl mentioned he had often turned his telescope to the country around to see what each of his classmates were doing. At that remark, I immediately asked him to tell me what he had found and he proceeded thusly:

"Well, my worthy adversary in the science world is, as you probably know, Bob Knoll who has just written that famous book, "Science and Stuff," published by the Warren Shores Book Agency, of Chicago. Of course many of the class of 1941 are happily married and have families. So, of course, where there are kiddies there are schools and where there are schools there are teachers. A Chicago high school has a very beautiful teacher. They call her Miss Wilson. Ah--yes--you've guessed it, Annis Wilson. Mary McGuire is also teaching in Chicago. She is a kindergarten teacher. While she is a noted authority on child behavior, she has a problem child which makes it rather hard on Mary's professional reputation. But you can't imagine my surprise when I saw Ruth Booher and Bob Cessna featured at one of the swankiest night spots in Chicago as a dancing team. They are considered the Volez and Yolanda of the decade. Another feature of this night club is the King of Hoofers, Billy Bussard who goes through his dance three times nightly." While Beryl paused to get a breath, I said, "But what of Audrey Reynolds and Margaret Warner?"

Did they ever become nurses?" Beryl continued, "Oh, yes, Audrey is famous in the nursing field as the only person who can make children take castor oil and like it. Margaret, after graduation from nursing school became an air hostess, but she fell in love with the copilot and is now living happily married in the East.

"And the last time I took a peep into this telescope of mine, I saw the former Marjorie Davis making a cherry pie for 'you know who.' I almost wished my telescope had been powerful enough to take me to her home for I just know her pies are the best. Speaking of the culinary art, I also know for a fact that Juanita Acton is going around the country conducting cooking schools--a very wise vocation, I'd say. She is often quoted as saying, 'Just a pinch of this, and a handful of that--that's how easy it is, girls, to be a cook.' Turning the telescope again my gaze has often been directed to New York City where there is a number of the old gang. Dwain Rigglesman is a broker and he wrote me the other day that he is either 'brok--er' immensely wealthy, but that he was mostly the former, for one of his clients is Gordie Parsons, who sometimes doesn't trade wisely on the Board of Trade.

"The Best Dressed Woman in America also lives in the Big City and though she goes under the name of Madame La! La!, I've found out she is really Goldie Parks. She also owns a dress shop and has designed many exotic clothes. One of her clientele is the former Marjorie Ownes, a millionaire sportsman's wife, who buys all her creations from Goldie. And--Oh, yes--it's been rumored that Marjorie hires all her husband's secretaries!

Once, while in New York, I took in the hit musical on Broadway and glancing at the programs, read that Leland Duncan was the producer. He is called the Ziegfield of 1950, and his protege is Mary Ellen Stover who became famous after singing, "Oh, My Heart Belongs To Frankie." Of course, you know that Phil Laurence is a chemist for Henry Ford III, and at present is working on a Ford that uses no oil or gas, but he has not quite come to the answer--"How!"

While Professor Beryl got a fresh breath of ozone, I put in, "Well, did you ever train your telescope on Jack Irvin, Mr. Reynolds? It seems to me I've heard of him recently,"

"Well, Jack was quite an inventor, patenting many of his ideas, none of which were ever accepted by anyone but the Patent Office. Jack was working on a better mouse trap. ~~Before~~ he had completely finished it he was notified that he had won the Irish Sweepstakes of 1949. Now he is living in style in Atlanta enjoying the Georgia "peaches" on the Georgia beaches.

Arnold Schluter and Earl Jones are missionaries in darkest Africa teaching the cannibals civilized customs. Mason Burd was aspiring for the governorship of Illinois. I was somewhat surprised but recalling the history classes I was not so astonished.

Beryl continued, "Now I know you wouldn't expect to find Barney Wise working, but he is, nevertheless! He is engaged as head basketball coach at Notre Dame and has a super team this year.

"We surely must be coming to the end of the list soon," I said, glancing at my watch to see the lateness of the hour. "Five more, I believe, and since I know you're in a hurry to get to New York for your next photography assignment, I'll hurry along. Bob Miller is the owner of a dude ranch out West and I hear that he is a confirmed bachelor, though half a dozen of his guests are secretly in love with him. Katharine Bruns and Alice Boten were spending a few weeks out there when I last looked that way. You won't believe it, but they're co-reporters for The New York Blah.

Ray Duncan was living on a farm in Texas, just minding his own business when they struck oil there and now Ray is an oil baron. Of course the class prophecy wouldn't be complete without a movie star so Richard Martin is proclaimed the "Clark Gable of the Age." And now the trip is over. I wish to thank Professor Reynolds for his information about the Class of '41.

After bidding Beryl good-bye, I went off to find my plane, and, sure enough there it lay in a pasture, a total wreck. But somehow I wasn't very sad for though I had lost a plane, I had found out some grand news about the graduates of Armstrong High School in 1941.

UNIVERSITY

JUNIOR HISTORY

On the first of September, 1938, thirty-five of the greenest of freshmen timidly entered Armstrong High School for the first time. They held a meeting and elected Charlotte Wright as president, Josephine Kingry as vice-president, Patty Fuller as secretary-treasurer and Clarence McQueen as Student Council member. During the year Josephine Kingry, Ruth and Geraldine Flever moved away to attend other schools. We were given a weiner roast at Potomac Park and with the Sophomores we gave the Christmas Party.

In early September of 1939 this group met again. The officers were Leal Wise as president, Wilbur Steenbergen as vice-president, Clarence McQueen as secretary-treasurer and Patty Fuller and Margaret Wallace as Student Council members. Out of the thirty-nine who started Patty Fuller and Glen Hardin left during the year. Two members, Wilbur Steenbergen and Charles Baker, quit. We again helped to put on the Christmas party for the upper classmen.

In the Junior year we had thirty-five members after Zuleime Hart entered. Everyone was interested in the Junior Play, "Dotty and Daffy," which played very successfully to a full house. The candy sales were an important activity of the year. The class officers for the year were: Clarence McQueen as president, Mildred Meitzler as vice-president, Marjorie Wolf as secretary-treasurer and Charlotte Wright, Ruth Meitzler and Leal Wise as Student Council members.

SOPHOMORE HISTORY

It was in the fall of 1939 that thirty-nine timid freshmen started to high school. Their first election of officers resulted as follows: President, Clark Morris; Vice-President, Betty Chesnut; Secretary-Treasurer, Charles Acton; Student Council member, Julia Wright. Mr. Whitlock was the Class Advisor. Two new members entered during the year were Josephine Barringer and Howard Maurer. The high-light of the year was a trip to Brookfield Zoo.

As Sophomores they again started another year with thirty-six of the original members and four new ones. They elected officers as follows: President, Betty Chesnut; Vice-president, June Reynolds; Secretary-Treasurer, Julia Wright; Student Council members, Betty Mabry and Arnold Reynolds. Advisor for the class was Miss Watkins.

FRESHMEN HISTORY

In the fall of 1940, forty-four freshmen entered the Armstrong High School. Their first meeting was held to elect officers. President, Sara Wells; Vice-President, Leonard Collins; Secretary-Treasurer, Everett Heckerson; Student Council member, James Duncan. The annual Christmas party was given by the freshmen and sophomores.

SUNBONNET SUE

Susan Clifton, the Sunbonnet Girl, is an orphaned child who has been left in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Abijah Scroggs, a skinflint couple. Mrs. Coleman, the president of the State Federation of Music Clubs, arrives in the village to conduct a music contest. She is accompanied by her daughter Barbara, her son Bob, and his chum Jerry. The contest is held in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Meadows whose daughter, Miranda, is one of the contestants. On learning of the contest, Sue timidly asks to be allowed to take part. They are willing but Mrs. Scroggs encouraged by her daughter, Evalina, harshly refuses. Sue is discouraged, but on meeting Barbara, Bob, and Jerry, she receives help. They call on Ezra McSpavin, the village constable, and persuade him to intercede in the name of the law.

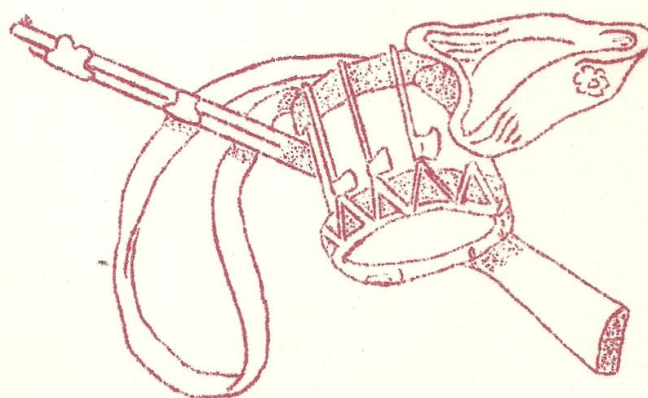

The young people of the village gather for the music contest. After all members have sung, Mrs. Meadows declares the list complete but Mrs. Coleman finds one more, "Susan Clifton." As she announces the number Sue enters gorgeously dressed. She sings her solo and is immediately awarded the prize.

Bob Coleman falls in love with Sue and offers his heart and hand, but Sue supposing his interest is based only on sympathy for poverty and misfortune, refuses. She says that she would be willing to consider him only if she were wealthy and independent. Bob goes in quest of the constable, and meanwhile, Jerry and Barbara come to a romantic agreement. Constable McSpavin finds the Scroggs hold a deed belonging to Sue to a town lot in Los Angeles which is very valuable. This proof of the property removes the last barrier of Sue and Bob. The curtain falls on the aspect of a double wedding.

SUNBONNET SUE

Susan Clifton, the Sunbonnet Girl, is an orphaned child who has been left in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Ashton Rogers, a skilful couple. Mrs. Coleman, the president of the State Federation of Music Clubs, arrives in the village to conduct a music contest. She is accompanied by her daughter Barbara, her son Bob, and his chum Jerry. The contest is held in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Meadows whose daughter, Miranda, is one of the contestants. On learning of the contest, Sue timidly asks to be allowed to take part. HOME-ECONOMICS CLUB

Club Officers: President, Phyllis Laurence
Vice-President, Mary Ellen Stover
Secretary-Treasurer, Mary McGuire
Program Chairman, Annis Wilson
Publicity Chairmen, Betty Chesnut
Ruth Bocher

In October the Club was organized and new members were initiated. Following the candle light ceremony, the initiation took place, with fun for all. Each new member received a favor and refreshments were served.

Interesting activities sponsored or conducted by the club this year included a toy gift exchange at the Christmas party---the toys afterward going to local children. In the spring most of the club motored to Momence where they attended the District Rally. Several skating parties and picnics were enjoyed during the year.

Miscellaneous projects in the club program this year included the serving of noon lunches, selling pop at ball games, sending two members to the Club Camp in August, and the purchasing, in cooperation with the School Board, of dishes and glassware for the Home-Economics Department.

CLASSES

Agriculture I is a beginning course open to freshmen and sophomores. It is the study of selection, care, and feeding of animals. Field trips are taken to give the boys practice in judging and selecting animals. In this course, the development of a good farm practice program through practical experience as well as theory in the class room is encouraged.

American History is a required course almost entirely made up of Seniors. The objective of the class is a better understanding of the present through a knowledge of the past. The high point of the year for this group is the trip to Springfield and New Salem. This trip is taken by the class every year and includes a visit to the State Legislature if it is in session, and to the Lincoln shrines.

Typing I is a beginning course in typewriting. Stress is placed on the technique of learning the keyboard. A speed of 35 words per minute for 15 minutes is required. Personal use value is also an objective of the course. The class is open to Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors.

Homemaking I is the beginning Home Economics course for Freshmen girls. It serves as an introduction to the other three courses in Homemaking through the study of social relationships, health and nutrition, simple meal preparation, selection of suitable clothing, colors and design, and clothing construction. The major objective of all Homemaking courses is the development of good future homemakers.

JUNIOR PLAY

Dotty and Daphne Travers, aged 24 and 21 respectively are the daughters of Phyllis Travers. Phyllis, still very beautiful, is sent to Palm Beach in order to catch a rich husband to keep her family out of the poor house. At the beach she meets Paxton Belmont, whom she thinks, is a rich widower. In order to keep Paxton, thinking she is only 29 while she is really 40, she sends Dotty and Daffy a telegram telling them to dress as children of 12 and 10 when she arrives home. Jimmie and Freddie Rand, boyfriends of the girls, are present when the telegram arrives and immediately resent the plot as they want Phyllis to marry their Uncle Hugh whom Dotty has invited to visit them. As Phyllis comes home, she brings Paxton Belmont and his son, Jack. To add to the confusion, Dotty invites their Aunt Hester Harley, a man hater, to visit them.

Jimmie and Freddie dress like small twins and acting as Phyllis' twins, pull many pranks in order to get even with the girls for playing up to Jack Belmont. After Paxton proposes to Phyllis, she finds that Aunt Hester is coming and Dotty and Daffy immediately change into older costumes and act as Phyllis' sisters in the presence of Paxton and Jack.

After Phyllis tells Paxton and Jack about her "younger sisters", they decide to stay. Paxton and Phyllis become engaged again providing she will send her children to a boarding school.

When Aunt Hester arrives, she immediately thinks there are entirely too many men in the house. Upon seeing Aunt Hester, Paxton realizes she is the woman he jilted in marriage a long time ago and he bribes Hopkins to take her glasses so she cannot recognize him.

After Hugh Rand arrives, Phyllis decides he is the man with (money?) whom she wants and they plan to be married. After several disappointments she finds he is really the millionaire even though she thought he wasn't wealthy.

EVERBODY'S CRAZY

Three nearly-broke college fellows, Herbert, Tommy, and Elmer, bought a summer hotel on notes and did they have a whale of a good time! They met up with old Man Adversity and polished him off with much eclat. Business was terrible--so very bad that it became necessary to give the inn a reputation as a haven for ghosts and the hiding place for an old miser's gold. Then came the paying guests, including an old maid who dabbled in spiritualism; a widow, just a funny old bundly of nerves; a sleep walking old Romeo; his always-on-hand hypochondriac wife; his daughter with gum-chewing propensities; and a farmer bachelor who was subject to nightmares. The cockney cook, afraid of spooks, was one of the funniest characters in the play and rounding out a comedy team was Gladiolia, the colored maid, and Jasper, the bell hop. One of the boys impersonated a doctor and treated the guests for all sorts of fancied ailments. Another one assumed a female character role and played fast and loose with many a palpitating masculine heart.

In the final scenes, the ghost was captured and was found to be the former owner of the hotel who had been carrying on a racket of selling the hotel, and haunting it until the owners were ready to sell it back to him. As the play ended, thirty thousand dollars was found and divided among the three owners.

The annual F. F. A. initiation meeting was held December 17, 1940. After the new members had gone through the formal F. F. A. initiation ceremonies, a recreation period was enjoyed. The party was sponsored by the Agriculture II class which furnished the refreshments.

On Wednesday night January 21, the F. F. A. boys enjoyed a swimming party at the Y. M. C. A. in Danville. Several boys demonstrated fancy diving. Everyone took part in underwater tag.

The last Monday night in January the F. F. A. boys sponsored a bobsled party. Don Burkhart with his Ford tractor pulled the bobsled to which the boys had attached their sleds. Falling off and getting back on the sleds furnished lots of fun and excitement during the evening.

Plans have also been made for a week's camping trip early in the summer.

SPORTS

1940--1941

In the fall of 1940 A. T. H. S. launched another sports year by starting the fall baseball schedule. Six lettermen were welcomed back from the previous year's team. Of the seven games played six were victories for the Armstrong club. It took the cooperation and sportsmanship of each player to finish a very successful season. In the North Vermilion County League Armstrong finished in second place.

Soon after the fall baseball was finished the Trojans started practicing for the 1940-41 basketball season. In the league standing Armstrong won eleven of the fourteen games played. During the year the fans that followed the team saw many very interesting hard-fought games. One of the high-lights of the year was the Potomac Invitational Tournament in which Armstrong won first place. With the closing of the basketball season several valuable senior players played their last game. Taking the year as a whole the teams have experienced a very successful one. While some of the individual players will not be back other have received valuable training this year which should prove to make another fine team for A. T. H. S. next year.

This year the senior class ~~did~~ not solicit for advertising space. They selected a list of those people who they believe received benefits from this territory. For those who cared to have their names included in the "Booster Section," they asked a small charge of one dollar.

Two of the business concerns, Blankenberg Photographers and Herff-Jones, Jewelers, contributed five and three dollars respectively.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank those who contributed for their fine spirit of cooperation.
